His Lordship also informed that the foundation stones of ADR Centers in most of other Districts has already been laid and the construction work is in full swing and that these ADR Centers would have office of District Legal Services Authority, Permanent Lok Adalat (Public Utility Services), Lok Adalat Hall for settling claims of Victim Compensation, multi-purpose Conference Hall, Mediation Center, a Library, Waiting Area and proper sitting arrangements for the lawyers and the litigants.

MORE GLIMPSE OF THE FUNCTION

FOUNDATION STONE OF DISTRICT ADR CENTER, KARNAL LAID

Hon'ble Mr. Justice S.K. Mittal, Judge, Punjab & Haryana High Court laid the foundation stone of District Alternative Dispute Resolution (ADR Centre) at Judicial Complex, Karnal on 27th July, 2013, in the esteemed presence of Hon'ble Mr. Justice Nawab Singh, Judge, Punjab & Haryana High Court and Administrative Judge, Karnal Sessions Division; Sh. Later, in a function organized at District Bar, Karnal, Hon'ble Justice Mittal explained the concept of the ADR and told the audience that the idea behind establishing the ADR Centre is to deliver speedy justice outside the adjudicatory process of the regular courts. In order to achieve this object, His Lordship called upon the lawyers to make the concept of amicable settlement a success, by shunning their apprehension that their practice would suffer if matters are settled peacefully. His lordship encouraged the lawyers to help in spreading information about the HALSA's initiatives for providing affordable Justice programme to all especially the under-privileged people.

Hon'ble Justice Nawab Singh laid stress upon the need for popularizing the concept of disposal of the matters through peaceful dialogues and equated the concept of ADR with the concept of Panchayat in earlier rural state of Haryana, where even the matters of serious nature were also settled by reconciliation.
