Talisman

I will give you a talisman. Whenever you are in doubt, or when the self becomes too much with you, apply the following test. Recall the face of the poorest and the weakest man (woman) whom you may have seen, and ask yourself, if the step you contemplate is going to be of any use to him (her). Will he (she) gain anything by it? Will it restore him (her) to a control over his (her) own life and destiny? In other words, will it lead to swaraj (freedom) for the hungry and spiritually starving millions? Then you will find your doubts and your self melt away.

I am delighted to share the latest edition of the NALSA Quarterly Newsletter, showcasing our progress in expanding legal aid services, particularly in rural and remote areas.

This newsletter highlights key initiatives that are strengthening NALSA's reach and impact, ensuring that legal aid is accessible to those who need it most. Second, a focus on training and capacity building through the Online Mediation Training Web Portal and advanced mediation programs equips legal professionals with essential skills, while National Lok Adalats continue to connect litigants with justice, supported by Judicial Academies. Third, collaboration with various organizations and government functionaries amplifies their impact, creating a more integrated approach to legal aid and community support.

For young lawyers and aspiring legal professionals, this newsletter is an invaluable resource that offers insights into NALSA's impactful work and unique internship opportunities in public interest law. It shares inspiring stories of Justice Champions making a difference, along with statistics on legal aid cases and outcomes that promote accountability and encourage active participation in the social justice movement.

These efforts are building a more accessible and inclusive justice system, and this edition is sure to inspire as NALSA continues its essential work. I look forward to seeing the continued impact of these initiatives.

RENDEZVOUS WITH

JUSTICE SANJIV KHANNA

HON'BLE EXECUTIVE
CHAIRMAN, NALSA

Under Hon'ble Mr. Justice Sanjiv Khanna's dynamic leadership, NALSA has pioneered groundbreaking initiatives, transforming the landscape of legal aid services in India. We are honored to present an exclusive interview with our visionary leader. In this candid conversation, Justice Khanna shares his vision for a more inclusive justice system; success stories and challenges in legal aid delivery; and the road ahead for access to justice in India. Join us as we delve into his thoughts and experiences, illuminating the path to justice and equality for all.

How do you perceive the role of Legal Awareness in enhancing the effectiveness of Legal Services Institutions?

Legal awareness is a vital prong of access to justice, serving as the foundation that enables individuals—especially those from marginalized communities—to understand their rights, seek benefits, and pursue legal remedies. Without legal awareness, even the most robust Legal Services Institutions would struggle to effectively reach and assist those in need. People who are informed about their legal rights and the resources available to them are more likely to approach Legal Services Institutions for assistance. In increasing legal awareness, literacy, and accessibility, our approach can be categorized into two:

- Reach-In Approach: This approach is resorted to when the public, either for general legal awareness, inquiry, or in instances of distress, approaches legal services authorities for assistance.
- Reach-Out Approach: It signifies the efforts of the Legal Services Institutions to extend help to those in need, which includes disseminating information to the public, raising awareness through advertisements and campaigns, or contacting and offering help to those affected. Additionally, authorities contact and offer help to those who may be affected by legal issues but are unaware of the resources available to them. To further the Reach-Out approach, we have established Legal Services Help Desks, similar to Legal Services Clinics, in court complexes and jails. These Help Desks provide critical support to individuals who arrive at court unacquainted with legal procedures or without legal assistance, ensuring that they are informed about the mechanisms available for legal aid. Currently, over 21,089 Legal Literacy Clubs operate in schools and colleges nationwide. In 2023 alone, more than 4,30,306 legal awareness programs were organized, benefiting approximately 4.5 crore citizens. We have also employed multiple media platforms—such as television, radio, and YouTube—to broaden our outreach. Our dedicated legal services helpline (15100), available in over 10 languages, with features like voice recognition, call transfers to State or District Legal Services Authorities, and call-back options furthers legal awareness.

By balancing both the Reach-In and Reach-Out approaches, we are ensuring that individuals are informed, empowered, and connected to legal aid services, promoting the cause of access to justice.

Recognizing that rural and remote communities frequently face significant barriers to accessing legal services, how is NALSA advancing its legal aid services and outreach initiatives to address these challenges?

NALSA is making significant progress in expanding Legal Aid Services, particularly in rural and remote areas. To address geographical disparities, NALSA has deployed mobile vans, directly linking isolated regions to the justice system. These mobile units ensure that even the most distant communities receive access to legal support. Grassroots initiatives like door-to-door legal campaigns have allowed NALSA to effectively extend their reach into communities that traditional methods might overlook, ensuring legal aid services penetrate even the hardest-to-reach areas. Further, the E-Portal offers a multilingual platform where users can apply for legal aid, upload documents, track their cases, and send reminders—all from one place. Nyaya Sampark desks, set up at State Legal Services Authority (SLSA) offices, provide a one-stop hub where beneficiaries can check the status of their cases, get legal advice, and learn about government schemes. These desks are equipped with toll-free helplines and video conferencing facilities, even connecting undertrials in jails with legal representation. Additionally, NALSA team regularly visits rural communities to engage with paralegal volunteers and local residents, aiming to understand their grievances. This hands-on approach helps NALSA monitor and improve the quality of legal assistance being provided. Similar visits are also made to the Prisons thereby ensuring that undertrials aren't left without the representation they deserve.

How do you think the public's perception of legal aid has changed in recent years, and what factors do you believe have driven that change?

Public perception of legal aid has evolved significantly in recent years, largely due to increased awareness of legal rights and the crucial role of access to justice. Educational campaigns have shifted the understanding of legal aid from being merely a safety net to a fundamental right. Technological advancements have further enhanced accessibility, particularly in remote areas, through online platforms and helplines, making it easier for individuals to seek assistance. Courts, too, have reinforced the importance of legal aid in ensuring fair trials, while social movements advocating for justice and government policies aimed at expanding legal aid services have bolstered public support. In response to this evolving scenario, we have made key changes to reflect the role of Legal Services Institutions. Recently, we renamed our Paralegal Volunteers as “Adhikar Mitrs” (friends of rights) and our Legal Aid Defense Counsel as “Nyaya Rakshak” (defenders of justice). This change in nomenclature underscores that Legal Services Institutions are not simply state-aid services but are uniquely positioned within the judicial domain to provide high-quality access to justice. By adopting these titles, we aim to foster a greater sense of approachability and trust among the public, emphasizing that legal aid is a vital part of the justice system, rather than a government welfare program. Legal services institutions must continue to be viewed as trusted, accessible, and effective partners in ensuring justice for all, regardless of socio-economic status.

How far has NALSA come in its mission, and what impactful progress has been made that has transformed the legal aid landscape? Could you highlight some key achievements?

NALSA has made remarkable progress in advancing access to justice in India, particularly for women, children, and marginalized groups, through specialized schemes and initiatives. Recently NALSA released the NALSA (Legal Services to Persons with Mental Illness and Persons with Intellectual Disabilities) Scheme, 2024, which seeks to provide tailored legal support to individuals with mental health conditions and intellectual disabilities, ensuring they receive appropriate representation and advocacy to protect their rights. NALSA also released the NALSA (Child-Friendly Legal Services for Children) Scheme, 2024, aimed at creating a child-sensitive legal environment that prioritizes the best interests of minors through dedicated legal aid. In addition to these schemes, NALSA recently launched a first-of-its-kind 40-hour online Mediation Training Portal to enhance the skills of legal professionals and mediators. This initiative promotes effective mediation practices and alternative dispute resolution methods, helping to reduce the judicial system's burden by encouraging out-of-court settlements. In 2023, legal assistance was provided to 1,71,794 accused at the remand stage, and to 27,521 suspects at the pre-arrest stage, of which 9,948 suspects (36%) were not arrested. This underscores the importance of legal aid at the pre-arrest and remand stage, preventing unnecessary detentions. Additionally, under the Pan-India Under Trial Review Committee (UTRC) Special Campaign- 2023, 7,246 meetings were held across the country, which led to the release of over 27,000 prison inmates. Lok Adalats have proven to be the heart and soul of mediatory dispute settlement, playing a vital role in alleviating the overwhelming caseload in India's justice system. In 2023 alone, over 14 crore cases were taken up in Lok Adalats, resulting in the disposal of 8.5 crore cases. This achievement highlights the efficacy of Lok Adalats in providing quick and amicable resolutions to disputes. Further, NALSA has formed strategic partnerships with NGOs, legal professionals, and educational institutions to enhance its outreach and effectiveness. It has recently collaborated with government departments like the Department for Social Justice and Empowerment and the National Commission for Women, as well as organizations like UNICEF India and NIMHANS to frame its two new schemes—the NALSA (Child-Friendly Legal Services for Children) Scheme, 2024 and the NALSA (Legal Services to Persons with Mental Illness and Persons with Intellectual Disabilities) Scheme, 2024.

Through these initiatives, NALSA continues to address barriers to access, ensuring that legal services remain within reach for all.

As the future leaders of the legal profession, law students and young lawyers possess the potential to drive significant change in the field. How can they contribute to strengthening the legal aid system and ensuring greater access to justice for underserved communities, especially in the face of systemic challenges and barriers?

Engaging in pro bono work offers law students and young lawyers a meaningful way to provide crucial legal assistance to underserved communities. By addressing immediate legal needs, they also gain a deeper, practical understanding of social justice and the realities of inequality. Law students can take the initiative to organize workshops and seminars to inform the public about their legal rights and available resources. Also, young lawyers can gain hands-on experience by interning with DLSAs, SLSAs or NALSA. These internships offer direct exposure to client cases, developing a pool of advocates well-equipped to serve low-income and vulnerable clients. This early involvement also instils a sense of responsibility that they can carry forward into their legal careers. Law students can also play an impactful role by conducting research into systemic challenges within the legal aid system. Their research can uncover gaps and inefficiencies, providing valuable insights for advocating necessary reforms. By offering innovative solutions, they can contribute to making justice more accessible, especially for those who face significant legal barriers. Young lawyers can guide law students through the complexities of pro bono work, passing on their knowledge and insights gained from real-world experience. This mentorship shapes a new generation of lawyers with a strong commitment to public service, cultivating a culture of responsibility and a deeper sense of purpose within the legal profession. Through a sustained commitment to pro bono efforts—whether through raising awareness, direct legal aid, or policy advocacy—law students and young lawyers help create a more equitable legal system and ensure that those most in need have access to justice.

How can citizens play an active role in bolstering the legal aid system and enabling NALSA to achieve its mission of delivering justice for all?

Citizens hold the power to make a significant impact on the legal aid system, helping organizations like NALSA expand their reach and effectively deliver justice. Their role is often overlooked, yet they are uniquely positioned to identify flaws and gaps within the system, offering invaluable insights into the community's needs. Citizens can contribute by raising awareness about the importance of legal aid. Advocacy within their communities can demystify legal rights and inform people about the legal aid services available to them. By initiating conversations, participating in local campaigns, or simply spreading the word, citizens can encourage those in need to seek assistance, thereby breaking down the stigma or hesitation that often surrounds legal matters. Paralegal volunteers play a vital role in community outreach efforts, and those with legal expertise can offer their knowledge and counsel to individuals seeking legal help. Volunteers serve as a critical link, ensuring that people who are unaware of or unable to access legal services are guided to the appropriate institutions for assistance. Citizens can support or organize initiatives aimed at educating others about their rights. By simplifying legal concepts and making them relatable, they can empower their peers to navigate the legal system with greater confidence. I believe that engagement with the legal aid system should be a two-way street. Citizens can provide valuable feedback on the quality and effectiveness of legal aid services, helping authorities identify gaps or areas for improvement. By participating in community consultations or engaging directly with legal services institutions, individuals can voice their concerns, share their experiences, and contribute to shaping a more responsive and tailored legal aid system.

What measures has NALSA taken to address the concerns of undertrial prisoners in the country?

While the principle of law presumes an accused to be innocent until proven guilty, prolonged detention can unjustly blur this distinction, effectively punishing individuals without due process. Beyond the direct impact on the accused, such delays also have significant consequences for their families, often threatening financial stability and social well-being. Recognizing this, NALSA has been addressing the challenges faced by undertrial prisoners on war-footing, not only by reviewing their incarceration status but also by providing comprehensive support to both inmates and their families during detention. Recent data underscores the positive progress in addressing undertrial cases. According to the Prison Statistics India Report, 2022, approximately 69% of undertrial prisoners were incarcerated for up to one year, reflecting that a large majority of cases are being processed within the same year, without excessive delays. Additionally, out of 16,75,778 undertrial prisoners admitted in 2022, 87.7% (14,70,848) were released on bail, highlighting an improved rate of case disposal. A significant part of NALSA's efforts is driven through the Undertrial Review Committees (UTRCs), which serve as critical oversight mechanisms established in every district. Led by a judicial officer and including representatives from the district administration, police, and prison departments, UTRCs conduct regular jail visits to review undertrial cases and determine their eligibility for release. In 2023 alone, UTRCs convened 7,246 meetings nationwide, resulting in the release of over 27,000 inmates, demonstrating the impact of these targeted efforts. NALSA also extends legal assistance to the families of undertrial prisoners, including legal aid in civil litigation, counselling, ensuring the education of children, identifying employment opportunities, and facilitating life and accidental insurance. Additionally, NALSA's training programs, run in collaboration with NGOs and expert bodies, are aimed at upskilling prisoners. These programs include academic education, vocational training in tailoring, carpentry, agriculture, and weaving, along with compensation for skilled and semi-skilled labour. By combining legal intervention with holistic support for prisoners and their families, NALSA plays a pivotal role in not only addressing the issue of prolonged incarceration but also fostering rehabilitation, reintegration, and justice for those awaiting trial.

RELEASE OF THE FRAMEWORK AND SCHEDULE FOR QUARTERLY UTRC MEETINGS- 2024

On 08th April, 2024, Hon'ble Mr. Justice Sanjiv Khanna, Judge, Supreme Court of India and Executive Chairman, NALSA, formally released a Framework and Schedule for Quarterly Meetings of Under Trial Review Committees in the year 2024. This initiative was in furtherance of several directives of the Hon'ble Supreme Court of India for conducting periodic review of detention of all prisoners. The virtual launch was attended by the Hon'ble Executive Chairpersons and Ld. Member Secretaries of the various State Legal Services Authorities; Ld. Chairpersons and Secretaries of the DLSAs and other members of the UTRCs. In 2024, these meetings will be conducted across all districts in India as per the schedule released.

Hon'ble Mr. Justice Sanjiv Khanna, while highlighting the crucial mandate of UTRCs to prevent long periods of incarceration during pendency of trial, gave a rallying call for further streamlining, strengthening, and reinvigorating functioning of the UTRCs in every district across India. He emphasised upon the need to increase awareness among lawyers about the fourteen categories of prisoners eligible for review, timely filing of bail applications, recourse to appellate remedy where bail applications are rejected. He further emphasized the need to undertake confidence building steps with prisoners as well as their families, to boost their trust in legal services. He also observed that during the two special campaigns of NALSA in the years 2022 and 2023, around 50,000 prisoners were released from the prisons. He stated that these figures were a testament to the seminal role played by the UTRCs. He however, sounded a note of caution here and stated that though on the face of it, the numbers of prisoners released were encouraging, an institutional reflection and analysis of the functioning and efficacy of UTRCs done by NALSA, revealed some gaps, which need to be addressed at the earliest to enhance UTRC's reach and efficacy. He further stated that if the UTRCs are conducted in a uniform and concerted manner across the country, as is being sought to be done by this "Framework and Quarterly Schedule of UTRC Meetings", the outcomes are bound to be much better.

Pursuant to the Schedule released in April, 2024, the 1st and 2nd Quarterly meetings of the UTRCs were held across all districts in India on 15th April and 15th July, 2024. The State and District Legal Services Authorities are prioritizing the filing of appropriate applications for all cases recommended and ensuring that releases are made in cases where bail is granted by the Courts. The data received from the SLSAs regarding the functioning of the UTRCs is a positive indication of a strengthened mechanism for periodic review of prisoner's cases. The data for the third Quarterly Meeting of the UTRCs for 2024 held on 16th October 2024 is yet to be received from the States. In the UTRC Quarterly meeting held in April, a total of 24,100 prisoners were identified for review, leading to the recommendation of 15,777 prisoners for release, which resulted in release of 7,421 prisoners. In the UTRC Quarterly meeting held in July 2024, 20,103 prisoners were identified for review, leading to recommendation of 14,048 prisoners for release, which resulted in release of 7,366 prisoners.

'RESTORING THE YOUTH': PAN-INDIA CAMPAIGN FOR IDENTIFYING JUVENILES IN PRISONS AND RENDERING LEGAL ASSISTANCE – 2024

'RESTORING THE YOUTH': Pan-India Campaign for identifying juveniles in prisons and rendering legal assistance– 2024 was launched by Hon'ble Mr. Justice Sanjiv Khanna, Judge, Supreme Court of India & Executive Chairman, NALSA on 25th January, 2024 on the eve of the 75th Year of India as a Republic. The immediate spur for launching this campaign was the fact that in recent years several unfortunate cases have come to light where children have been found languishing in prisons meant for adult offenders, without any judicial determination on the plea of juvenility that may have been taken by them before the courts. The tragic reality of these children languishing in jails stood in stark contrast to the ideals of justice, rehabilitation, and the fundamental belief that no child should be forced to navigate a criminal justice system meant for adults, which doesn't recognize their developmental vulnerabilities and unique circumstances. Recognizing its institutional responsibility to take immediate action to identify these vulnerable young souls and to ensure that they are transported from the dark alleys of adult jails and transplanted into an environment that fosters their growth, nurtures their potential, and offers them a pathway towards societal reintegration, NALSA came up with this Campaign.

From 25th January, 2024 till 27th February, 2024, 7,134 probable juveniles were identified in adult prisons. Applications for age determination were filed by the Legal Services Institutions on behalf of 3,381 such probable juveniles. 1,200 applications were disposed off while 2,173 applications remained pending. 287 probable juveniles were transferred to Place of Safety or Special Home or Observation Home and around 461 such persons were released on bail.

NATIONAL LOK ADALATS

“GHAR GHAR NYAYA, EK NAYA ADHYAY”

The National Lok Adalats which are organized across India, as per the annual calendar of NALSA, have bridged the gap between litigants and justice; ensured speedy and cost-effective dispute resolution; promoted social harmony and community cohesion; and enhanced public trust in the judicial system. As an illustrative example, the three National Lok Adalats organized so far this year have successfully disposed of over 7.7 crore cases. These figures encompass both pending cases and pre-litigation cases. By including pre-litigation cases in the National Lok Adalat framework, potential disputes were resolved at an early stage, preventing them from escalating into formal court proceedings. The necessity of addressing pre-litigation cases is underscored by data, showing that a greater number of these cases are resolved compared to pending ones. For instance, in the three National Lok Adalats held in 2024, over 6.4 crore pre-litigation cases were disposed of, in contrast to more than 1.2 crore pending cases. Furthermore, under the stellar leadership of Hon'ble Mr. Justice Sanjiv Khanna, the disposal rate of cases has been constantly improving.

“ Advocacy is not a craft but a calling; a profession wherein devotion to duty constitutes the hallmark. Sincerity of performance and the earnestness of endeavor are the two wings that will bare aloft the advocate to the tower of success. Given these virtues other qualifications will follow of their own account. This is the reason why the legal profession is regarded as a noble one.

BEST PRACTICES IN LEGAL AID

- Legal Services Institutions should have a diverse workforce of Paralegal Volunteers and should empanel transgenders, acid attack survivors, persons with disabilities, senior citizens etc. to be more reflective and responsive to community needs.
- Legal Services Institutions should encourage more convicts to train as Paralegal Volunteers as they can help address the trust deficit among prisoners towards legal services being offered by the Legal Services Institutions. These Convict PLVs can act as a bridge between the legal services institutions and the prisoners, thereby helping in effectuation of the legal rights and entitlements of the latter.
- Secretaries and Chairmen of DLSAs should regularly visit the Prison Legal Aid Clinics to monitor their activities and take prompt remedial action whenever deficiency in services are noted. They should fill up the Inspection Forms as circulated by NALSA and send it to SLSA concerned for onward transmission to NALSA.
- Legal Services Institutions should also provide timely assistance to convicts to challenge orders passed by the Sentence Review Boards, whenever their applications for premature release are rejected.
- Legal Services Clinics should be opened at more community places. Mobile Legal Services Clinics should also be started for reaching far flung areas, thereby ensuring that individuals in remote areas can obtain the legal assistance they need.
- Assessment and documentation of community needs should be regularly done through door to door campaigns by deploying community PLVs for the same. The community needs be kept in mind to develop area specific programs.
- Legal Awareness Programs should be conducted in Vernacular Language and IEC material should also be developed in vernacular language. NALSA National Helpline Number 15100 should be given widest publicity.
- Curated content should be preferably used for the Legal Awareness programs to make them more effective and interactive.
- State Legal Services Authorities should hold periodic orientation and refresher training programs for Secretaries of DLSAs to acquaint them with the NALSA Manual for DLSAs; NALSA Handbook of Formats; directives of the Hon'ble Supreme Court and concerned High Courts.

INTERNING AT NALSA

For law students, an internship at NALSA offers a unique opportunity to gain firsthand experience in legal aid and public interest law. Interning at NALSA gives students the chance to understand how free legal services are extended to those who cannot afford them. This includes working on cases involving women, children, prisoners, marginalized communities, and victims of disasters or trafficking. It provides invaluable exposure to the implementation of social welfare legislation and human rights advocacy. Interns at NALSA often contribute to research on issues like access to justice, the effectiveness of legal aid schemes, and legal awareness programs. They may assist in drafting proposals, reports, or recommendations for improving legal services. Through this, they gain insight into policy-making processes aimed at enhancing the legal aid framework in India. Interns may also have the chance to counsel legal aid beneficiaries under the supervision of our officers. This interaction enables them to develop essential skills in communication, empathy, and professionalism, which are critical for any lawyer. An internship at NALSA is not just an academic or professional endeavor but also a personal contribution to the cause of social justice. It allows law students to actively participate in bridging the gap between the privileged and the underprivileged by making legal recourse accessible to all.

एहसास न्याय का सबके लिए, आकाश न्याय का सबके लिए,
उल्लास न्याय का सबके लिए, विश्वास न्याय का सबके लिए,
अपने इस हिन्दुस्तान पर, हक हमारा भी तो है,
इंसाफ के इस आशियाँ पर, हक हमारा भी तो है,
एक मुट्टी आसमाँ पर, हक हमारा भी तो है,
ये न सोचो दर्द हमारा कहीं सुना न जाएगा,
अब न्यायालय खुद चलकर चौपालों तक आएगा,
लाचारों को न्याय मिलेगा, दुखियारों को न्याय मिलेगा,
कमजोरों को न्याय मिलेगा, मजलूमों को न्याय मिलेगा,
अपने इस हिंदुस्तान पर, हक हमारा भी तो है,
उम्मीदों के इस गुलिस्तां पर, हक हमारा भी तो है,
एक मुट्टी आसमान पर, हक हमारा भी तो है।

गरीब और कमजोरों को मुफ्त एवं सक्षम कानूनी सहायता के लिए प्रतिबद्ध,
