REUNITING THE FAMILIES IN NLA

6 years ago, an allegation was made by a woman that her husband was not executing his promise to keep her wife happy, a case was instituted against the husband under the Protection of woman from Domestic Violence act, 2005. Years went by, proceedings continued, they debated over a compromise, consulted here and there but nothing heard any fruit. After referring the matter to NLA and going through the Pre-counselling the husband and wife agreed to live with each other and even recreated a 10-year-old visual from 10.02.2012, the date of their marriage. Both celebrated the event with bestowing garlands on each other and left together with a wide smile on their faces. The thread which ran across the entire event was Lok Adalat. They attributed their decision to reconsider their married life to Lok Adalat. This gave a beautiful message to everybody present there that compromising doesn't mean that you are wrong and someone is right, it only means that you value your relationship more than your ego.

Finally, the wife got fed up and left her husband's home. She also took her daughter with herself and rented a house for both of them.

Thus, NLA provided formal recognition to the concept of mediation at the pre litigation stage and became a platform for the dispute to settle before reaching the Court and saving both money and time.

The desire to stay away from the complicated legal process pushed parties to amicably settle the dispute and the Court also supported it by actively participating in the process.

One such example was witnessed in the 38 years old land dispute in NLA on 14.5.22. there was rift between the parties for nearly 38 years. However, after the death of the complainant, efforts were made to make compromise with his sons and the dispute was finally put to an end.

The Presiding officer had a pioneering contribution in this matter, who recognised the possibility of settlement in the said matter. The matter was listed for the "Door-Step Pre-Counselling". The counselling was done at their door step only. Presiding Officer, Gram Nyayalaya, Jayal also contributed and convinced the parties to go for the compromise. Finally, the matter was resolved through mutual settlement.

IT MAY TAKE A YEAR OR IT MIGHT TAKE A DAY BUT WHAT'S MEANT TO BE, WILL ALWAYS FIND ITS WAY.

The pain of parting is nothing to the joy of meeting again, this quote by Charles Dickens was relived in the NLA wherein a couple who was living separately from last 15 years was reunited.

The case was pending in the Court of Additional District and Sessions Judge, Chomu, Jaipur District. The marriage of the petitioner and the respondent took place in the year 2006. Shortly after the marriage, due to rift between the two on trivial matters, they started living separately and wife filed a divorce petition. Both the parties were adamant. There came a time when both of them agreed to file a petition for divorce for mutual consent. But following the spirit of Lok Adalat, the Presiding officers intervened and persuaded the parties to give themselves one more chance. Presiding officer himself counselled them. The couple agreed to work on their marriage again and decided to stay together.
