FOREWORD

A Constitution is judged not only by the rights it promises, but by the real opportunities it creates for those living at the margins of society. Education holds a special place among these rights. It is through education that dignity takes shape, equality gains meaning, and justice becomes something people truly experience. A child's future should never depend on the circumstances of their birth. Every child deserves an equal chance to learn, to aspire, and to realise their fullest potential.

The Constitution of India carries this vision forward through Article 21A, which recognises education as a fundamental right of every child. This commitment is strengthened further by Article 39(f), which directs the State to give children the opportunities and facilities to grow up in a healthy way, with freedom and dignity, and by Article 51A(k), which reminds every parent and guardian of their own duty to provide educational opportunities to their children. Together, these provisions confirm that education is not simply a matter of policy. It is a shared national commitment.

The Right of Children to Free and Compulsory Education Act, 2009 turned this constitutional promise into practice. Section 12(1)(c) of the Act is one of its most progressive provisions, as it works to ensure that children from Economically Weaker Sections and Disadvantaged Groups can access quality education in private unaided schools. Still, the true measure of any right lies not in how it is written into law, but in how meaningfully it is carried out. A constitutional guarantee serves its purpose only when it truly reaches every child it was meant for.

It is with this vision that the National Legal Services Authority (NALSA) has designed NALSA SHIKSHA, 2026, the Scheme for Holistic Inclusion, Knowledge & Schooling through Help & Access. The scheme reaffirms our shared constitutional commitment that no child should be denied the opportunity to learn because of economic or social disadvantage. The Scheme reflects NALSA's continuing effort to turn the constitutional promise of education into real opportunities for every eligible child. It confirms that access to justice goes beyond courtrooms, and that Legal Services Institutions have an equally important role to play in helping people access rights that shape lives, protect dignity, and encourage social inclusion.

Education has the power to transform not just individual lives, but the destiny of our nation as a whole. Every child who gets the chance to learn adds to their own future, and to the future of our society. It is essential, then, that all stakeholders work with care, commitment, and a shared sense of purpose, so that the constitutional promise of education reaches every child in need.

I commend the National Legal Services Authority for conceiving this timely and important initiative. May NALSA SHIKSHA serve as a bridge between constitutional promise and educational opportunity, so that every eligible child is empowered to learn with dignity, aspire with confidence, and contribute meaningfully to the progress of our nation.

MESSAGE

The enactment of a progressive law is only the first step towards securing justice. Its true success lies in the strength of the institutions entrusted with translating legal rights into meaningful realities for the people they are intended to serve. The Right of Children to Free and Compulsory Education Act, 2009, particularly Section 12(1)(c), is a transformative legislative measure that seeks to promote inclusion and equal opportunity in education. Yet, despite the statutory framework having been in place for over fifteen years, many eligible children continue to remain outside its fold due to lack of awareness, procedural complexities and implementation gaps.

It is in recognition of these challenges that the National Legal Services Authority has conceived NALSA SHIKSHA, 2026 - Scheme for Holistic Inclusion, Knowledge & Schooling through Help & Access. The Scheme has consciously been designed as a year-round intervention rather than an admission-season initiative, recognising that the true measure of implementation is not merely securing admission, but ensuring that every eligible child is able to continue, learn and flourish with dignity. By placing equal emphasis on awareness, facilitation, post-admission support and institutional accountability, the Scheme seeks to translate statutory entitlements into meaningful educational opportunities.

Legal Services Institutions occupy a unique position at the intersection of law, governance and community engagement. Their extensive grassroots presence equips them not merely to respond to legal disputes, but to facilitate the effective realisation of statutory and constitutional rights. The establishment of dedicated SHIKSHA Units at the District and Taluk levels reflects this vision by creating a sustainable institutional mechanism capable of identifying eligible children, extending timely assistance, resolving barriers and ensuring continuous support throughout the educational journey.

The Scheme has been designed to foster close coordination amongst the State Legal Services Authorities, District Legal Services Authorities, Taluk Legal Services Committees, educational authorities, Para Legal Volunteers, Legal Aid Clinics, academic institutions and community stakeholders. Such collaboration is indispensable for ensuring that implementation remains responsive to local needs while maintaining nationally consistent standards. Equally important are structured capacity building, periodic training, continuous monitoring and accountability, all of which will strengthen institutional effectiveness and promote uniform implementation across the country.

The success of this initiative will ultimately depend upon the collective commitment of every stakeholder associated with the legal services movement. State Legal Services Authorities, District Legal Services Authorities, Taluk Legal Services Committees and their dedicated functionaries will play a pivotal role in transforming the vision of the Scheme into tangible outcomes. Through coordinated institutional action, sustained community engagement and a shared commitment to the welfare of every child, they can ensure that the promise of inclusive education reaches those for whom it was intended.

I place on record my sincere appreciation for the National Legal Services Authority and all those who have contributed to conceptualising this important initiative. I am confident that NALSA SHIKSHA will strengthen the implementation of the Right of Children to Free and Compulsory Education Act, 2009, and serve as a robust institutional framework for ensuring that no eligible child is denied quality education for want of awareness, assistance or institutional support.

Message

It is with great pride that we present the NALSA SHIKSHA, 2026 – Scheme for Holistic Inclusion, Knowledge & Schooling through Help & Access, under the leadership of Hon'ble Mr. Justice Surya Kant, Patron-in-Chief, NALSA and Hon'ble Mr. Justice Vikram Nath, Executive Chairman, NALSA. Conceived by the National Legal Services Authority, the Scheme seeks to strengthen the implementation of Section 12(1)(c) of the Right of Children to Free and Compulsory Education Act, 2009, by creating a structured, accessible and institutionally coordinated mechanism through which every eligible child can be supported in securing and continuing quality education.

More than fifteen years after the coming into force of the Right of Children to Free and Compulsory Education Act, 2009, the challenge before us is no longer the creation of a legal framework, but ensuring its effective, uniform and meaningful implementation. Experience has shown that educational exclusion is rarely the result of a single barrier. Lack of awareness, documentation challenges, digital exclusion, procedural complexities, admission-related grievances and post-admission discrimination often operate simultaneously, preventing eligible children from fully realising their statutory entitlements. The Scheme has therefore been designed as a continuum of support that accompanies children and their families from awareness and admission to retention and meaningful inclusion within the education system.

At the heart of the Scheme lies the establishment of dedicated SHIKSHA Units within the Legal Services Institutions. These Units are envisaged not merely as administrative structures, but as institutional mechanisms that bring together Legal Services Authorities, Para Legal Volunteers, educational authorities, legal aid functionaries, academic institutions and community stakeholders in a coordinated effort to bridge the gap between statutory rights and their actual realisation. More importantly, the Scheme redefines the role of Legal Services Institutions from being primarily providers of legal assistance after a dispute arises to becoming proactive facilitators of educational rights, intervening at the earliest stage to prevent exclusion before it occurs. By integrating legal awareness, admission facilitation, grievance redressal, post-admission support, capacity building and periodic monitoring within a single framework, the Scheme seeks to ensure that access to education is accompanied by sustained institutional support.

The Scheme has been developed through an extensive consultative process involving the State Legal Services Authorities across the country. The valuable suggestions and recommendations received from the States have substantially enriched the Scheme, ensuring that while its vision remains nationally consistent, its implementation remains responsive to diverse local realities and educational ecosystems across the country.

NALSA SHIKSHA is, therefore, not merely a Scheme; it is an institutional commitment to ensure that the promise of education is accompanied by awareness, guidance, accountability and sustained support. It reflects NALSA's evolving vision of legal aid, one that extends beyond dispute resolution to securing the effective enjoyment of constitutional and statutory rights through timely intervention and collaborative action. I am confident that this initiative will strengthen the implementation of the Right to Education Act across the country and help ensure that no eligible child is denied the opportunity to learn, thrive and realise their full potential for want of awareness, assistance or institutional support.

PART I : FOUNDATIONAL FRAMEWORK

1. INTRODUCTION

This Scheme is conceived to facilitate the effective realisation of the right to education under the Right of Children to Free and Compulsory Education Act, 2009 (hereinafter “the Act”), particularly for children belonging to Economically Weaker Sections, Disadvantaged Groups, migrant families, and children with disabilities.

It seeks to strengthen access to justice mechanisms by enabling Legal Services Institutions and other stakeholders to support such children and their families in securing their entitlements under Section 12(1)(c) of the Act, through legal awareness, facilitation, and assistance in navigating admission processes and grievance redressal systems.

The National Legal Services Authority (hereinafter “NALSA”), in furtherance of its mandate to provide legal services and ensure that statutory entitlements reach eligible beneficiaries, has formulated the NALSA SHIKSHA (Scheme for Holistic Inclusion, Knowledge & Schooling through Help & Access) Scheme 2026. The Scheme is designed to facilitate access to admissions under Section 12(1)(c) of the Act for children belonging to Economically Weaker Sections and Disadvantaged Groups, and to address barriers in its effective implementation.

Through this Scheme, NALSA seeks to provide structured legal assistance, support in admission processes, and accessible grievance redressal mechanisms through Legal Services Institutions (LSI) and Para Legal Volunteers (PLVs).

2. RATIONALE

Recent judicial developments further reinforce the need for structured intervention. In *Dinesh Biwaji Ashtikar v. State of Maharashtra*¹, the Hon’ble Supreme Court issued directions emphasising that the statutory mandate under Section 12(1)(c) must be meaningfully enforced through binding rules and active monitoring. These directions underline that legal services institutions have a critical role to play in ensuring that constitutional guarantees under Article 21A translate into enforceable rights on the ground.

This obligation is further strengthened by the Directive Principles under Article 39(f), which require the State to ensure that children are given opportunities to develop in a healthy and dignified manner, and the fundamental duty under Article 51A(k), which places a responsibility on parents or guardians to provide opportunities for education to children.

While over twenty-five years have elapsed since education was recognised as a fundamental right, and more than fifteen years since the enforcement of the Act, implementation gaps continue to persist, particularly affecting children from Economically Weaker Sections, Disadvantaged Groups, migrant families, and children with disabilities. Although significant improvements have been observed in enrolment and reduction in drop-out rates at the elementary level, national and state-level trends indicate that the benefits of the Act have not been realised uniformly.

In this context, the scheme is necessary to:

- Translate constitutional and judicial mandates into operational responsibilities;
- Bridge gaps between education administration and access to justice mechanisms; and
- Equip frontline actors with practical tools for implementation.

3. CHALLENGES IN REALISATION OF SECTION 12(1)(c) OF THE ACT

a. Limited Awareness and Outreach

Limited awareness regarding the availability of admissions under Section 12(1)(c) of the Act continues to affect access for eligible beneficiaries.

The State of the Nation: RTE Section 12(1)(c) report identifies “generating awareness” as a critical first step in the admission process and highlights that implementation challenges persist due to inadequate outreach and dissemination of information. The report further notes that several implementation issues across States relate to awareness, admission processes, and accountability mechanisms, indicating that lack of information among beneficiaries remains a recurring concern.

In the absence of structured awareness initiatives and facilitation mechanisms, eligible families particularly those from Economically Weaker Sections and Disadvantaged Groups may be unable to effectively access their entitlements under the Act.

b. Under-utilisation of Reserved Seats

The 25% reservation under Section 12(1)(c) continues to witness incomplete utilisation and procedural exclusion.

Available analyses based on official Unified District Information System for Education (UDISE) datasets have indicated relatively low levels of utilisation of seats under this provision in earlier years. The last comprehensive DISE-based assessment (2016), based on data for 2013–15, indicated utilisation levels of approximately 15%.

While UDISE+ continues to collect school-level data on admissions under this provision, consolidated and publicly accessible information on seat availability and utilisation is not routinely reported.

c. Procedural and Access Barriers

Access to admissions under Section 12(1)(c) is often affected by procedural constraints, including documentation requirements and lack of clarity in processes, which disproportionately impact vulnerable families.

d. Digital Exclusion

Digital admission systems, while intended to enhance transparency, have simultaneously excluded families lacking access to digital infrastructure or literacy, thereby limiting equitable access.

e. Variations in Implementation

Implementation of Section 12(1)(c) continues to vary across States, leading to inconsistencies in access, admission processes, and outcomes. Variations are evident in admission timelines, eligibility criteria, digital admission systems, and levels of utilisation of reserved seats, as reflected in available State-level admission data and administrative records, with some States achieving relatively higher coverage while others continue to record unfilled seats under the 25% quota. These differences arise from variations in State rules, administrative practices, portal design, and levels of awareness, resulting in uneven realisation of statutory entitlements.

These challenges underscore the need for structured legal awareness and facilitation mechanisms through LSIs.

4. OBJECTIVES OF THE SCHEME

The scheme aims to:

- a. Facilitate Access to Admission: For eligible children to secure admission under Section 12(1)(c) of the Act through structured support mechanisms.
- b. Strengthen Awareness of Entitlements: To promote awareness among eligible beneficiaries regarding their rights, eligibility criteria, admission procedures, and timelines under Section 12(1)(c).
- c. Clarify Statutory Obligations: To ensure understanding of statutory obligations under the Act, including non-discrimination and admission requirements applicable to private unaided schools.
- d. Provide Grievance Redressal Support: To enable timely resolution of issues relating to denial of admission, procedural barriers, and related concerns through LSIs.
- e. Align Implementation with Judicial Directions: To support implementation of statutory entitlements in accordance with judicial directions, including those in Dinesh Bhiwaji Ashtikar v. State of Maharashtra. The Hon'ble Supreme Court observed:

“We have to ensure admission of at least twenty-five percent of class strength in unaided schools with children of weaker and disadvantaged groups. This is certainly a national mission. Effective implementation of the statutory policy will be transformative and, in this regard, each one of us, be it the institution or an individual, be it the Central or the State Governments,”

- f. Define Institutional Roles: To delineate the roles and responsibilities of stakeholder, including LSIs and PLVs, in the implementation framework.
- g. Capacity Building of Stakeholders: For legal awareness, facilitation, and grievance redressal.
- h. Enable Coordination and Feedback Mechanism: To facilitate coordination with States and relevant institutions to address region-specific challenges and improve implementation.
