THE JAMMU AND KASHMIR STATE LEGAL SERVICES AUTHORITY (LEGAL AID CLINICS) SCHEME, 2010.

1. Introduction:

Legal aid clinics are intended to provide legal relief easily accessible to the indigent and backward sections of our society. They are almost often located in the lines of primary health centres where a doctor and other auxiliary medical staff provide basic healthcare to the people situated in village areas affected with poverty and social squalor. Like the doctors rendering health services to the people of the locality in the primary health centre, a lawyer manning the legal services like legal advice and assisting in drafting of notices, replies, applications, petition etc. The lawyer managing the legal aid clinic will also attempt to resolve the disputes of the people in the locality, preventing the disputes from maturing into litigation. This provides the lawyer in the legal aid clinic to understand the difficulties faced by people in the distant villages for access to justice. Legal aid clinics have to be manned by lawyers with a sense of commitment, sensibility and sensitivity to the problems of common people.

Matters to be considered while rendering legal services to mentally retarded persons

1. Mentally retarded persons are not mentally ill persons.—

There is confusion even among the legal community that mentally retarded people are mentally ill. Mentally ill persons are suffering from mental disabilities due to developmental disorders. Mental retardation of permanent nature is not curable. They are, therefore, treated as persons with disabilities under section 2 of the Jammu and Kashmir Persons with Disabilities (Equal Opportunities, Protection of Rights and Full Participation) (PWD) Act, 1998 (PWD Act). The statutory provisions for the welfare of mentally retarded persons are (i) PWD Act, 1998 and (ii) National Trust for Persons with Autism, Cerebral Palsy, Retardation and Multiple Disabilities Act, 1999 (National Trust Act, 1999). They come under the purview of the UN Convention on the Rights of Persons with Disabilities (CRPD), 2008.

2. Legal services to mentally retarded persons (MRs).—

The legal services institutions shall get in touch with the Social Welfare Department of the State Government and find out the different beneficiary schemes for the MRs. Indian Railway has schemes for travel facility for MRs. The Income Tax Act also gives some benefits to the parents of MRs. The legal services institutions shall attempt to make available the benefits under various schemes to the MRs and their family members.

3. Legal services for ensuring the healthcare of MRs. — MRs like any other citizens are entitled to right to health services as a part of the fundamental rights.

4. Legal services for ensuring the fundamental rights of MRs. — The legal services institutions shall provide assistance to the MRs for protecting their fundamental right, equality and equal treatment.

5. Right to education.—

The policy in CRPD is an inclusive policy providing respect for MRs, evolving capacity of MRs, for preserving their identity, respect their inherent dignity and individual autonomy. The Convention envisages the right of MRs to get education on the basis of equal opportunity and for the development of their mental, physical abilities and creativity to their fullest potential. Therefore, the legal services institutions shall always attempt to safeguard the above mentioned rights of MRs whenever they are found to be deprived of such rights.

6. Legal services for the benefits under PWD Act, 1998.—

Legal services institutions shall assist the MRs for obtaining benefits under the PWD Act, 1998.

7. Prevention of exploitation and abuse of MRs.—

MRs are one of the vulnerable groups likely to be exploited. Female MRs are the most vulnerable of the group. Therefore, the legal services institutions shall come to the assistance of MRs in preventing their exploitation including sexual abuse and also for taking legal action against the abusers and exploiters.

8. Legal services of MRs for owing and inheriting properties and other financial rights.—

Legal services institutions shall come to the help of MRs in protecting their rights of inheritance, owning properties and enjoying financial rights.

9. Appointment of guardians under the National Trust Act, 1999.—

Loss of both parents often leads to a situation that the MRs become orphans. Therefore, appointment of guardians contemplated under National Trust Act, 1999 is of great importance. Legal services institutions shall come to the assistance of MRs in the matter of appointment of guardian.

10. Need for setting up of a supported network.—

The legal services institutions with the help of the Social Welfare Department of the State Govt., NGO's, Charitable Trusts, relatives of the MRs and social workers encourage to set up a supported network at the local level or the welfare of MRs. The supported network in each locality shall take care of the MRs to ensure that the MRs are not becoming destitute and their food, health and other essential needs are taken care of uninterrupted.

11. Creating awareness campaigns amongst the other school children.—

It is important that the normal children are made aware of the fact that MRs and other persons with disabilities are also entitled to the rights provided by the laws and the protection of laws like any other persons. Therefore, the Legal Services Authorities shall on the World Disability Day organize special awareness programmes in the primary schools to create awareness amongst the young children to change theirmindsettowardsMRs.

Videos, charts, picture, skits and thematic presentations can be used in such programmes.

12. Awareness camps for educating the family members of MRs.

The legal services institutions in association with the schools in their locality can organize awareness camps for the family members of MRs. Services of specialists in counselling, psychiatric, psychological, social workers and lawyers also can be made use of in their programmes. Siblings of MRs also may be included in such programmes.

13. Awareness programmes for the general public.—

Awareness programmes may be conducted for the general public to educate the public that MRs and other disabled persons also have the rights at par with the other normal persons.

14. Sensitization programme for Judicial Officers and Lawyers

Special sensitization programmes can be organized with the assistance of State Judicial Academy and Bar Associations for sensitizing 19 Judicial Officers and lawyers about the MRs and their rights.

THE JAMMU AND KASHMIR STATE LEGAL SERVICES AUTHORITY (LEGAL SERVICES TO THE WORKERS IN THE UNORGANISED SECTOR) SCHEME, 2010.

THE JAMMU AND KASHMIR STATE LEGAL SERVICES AUTHORITY (LEGAL SERVICES TO THE WORKERS IN THE UNORGANISED SECTOR) SCHEME, 2010.

In the Regional Conference of the State Legal Services Authorities of the Western Region organized by the National Legal Services Authority (NALSA) at Ahmadabad on 28-29 August, 2010 the topic of deliberations was 'Workers in the Unorganized Sector and the Role of Legal Services Authorities'. Detailed discussion took place on the plight of unorganized workers in securing their statutory rights and availing of the benefits of the various schemes put in place by the State Governments.

It is estimated that the workers in the unorganized sector contribute more than 60 percent to the national economy. Unlike their brethren in the organized sector, they are generally reluctant to come to the forefront and demand for the benefits under the various schemes and other welfare measures put in place by the Labour Department and other institutions because of their sheer unorganized or loosely organized nature. Such workers are generally not confined to any particular area as their place of work has no permanent status. Quite often their work is seasonal and when the work at one place is finished they migrate to other places in search of work. They do different kinds of work depending on the availability of work. Some stick to certain avocations on the basis of caste and tradition and yet remain unorganized.

In this scenario, the general problem the authorities and welfare institutions face is that the workers in the unorganized sector are not identifiable. Illiteracy, poverty and the concern for earning their daily bread compel these workers to forsake the benefits of the various social welfare measures. It is the duty of the legal services institutions to reach out to the workers in the unorganized sector for making available the benefits of various schemes and to provide them the protection of law.

Most of the schemes and welfare laws for the benefit of the workers in the unorganized sectors are dispensed through the institutional mechanisms of Boards and Corporations, such schemes and laws are in the nature of social security measures and provide assistance to the unorganized workers, at least to tide over their difficult times. Legal services institutions should come to the help of this disadvantaged group to make available the benefits though small in quantum, to ease their struggle against the odds of life.

Legal Services Authorities can come to the help of the workers in the unorganized sector in the following manner:—

Identifying the unorganized workers within the jurisdiction of each legal services institution by conducting surveys;

Legal services institutions may take steps for conducting surveys for identifying unorganized workers. Services of law students, NGO's and para-legal volunteers also can be availed off for conducting such surveys. Surveys can be conducted in a phased manner, gradually covering entire area within the jurisdiction of the legal services institutions concerned. The beneficiaries may be categorized into groups depending on the different welfare schemes of the State Government implemented through the Boards and Corporations etc. The surveys should indicate whether the workers belonging to each category have made efforts to avail of the benefits of the scheme or scheme/legislation/programme of the Government. The next step shall be to ensure that all deserving unorganized workers are brought to avail of the benefits.

(2) Conducting legal awareness programmes for the identified groups of unorganized workers:—

After identification of the unorganized labourers in each category, legal awareness programmes may be organized for creating awareness among them about the different welfare schemes and social security measures available.

For this purpose, awareness programmes may be organized, as far as possible, at the place of work of the workers itself (e.g. construction worksites, marketplaces in the case of street-vendor etc.). Legal awareness classes can be conducted in other places like community halls also. Care shall be taken that the timing of the awareness programmes does not conflict with the work of workers. Lunch intervals and holidays can be utilized for the awareness campaigns.

(3) Persuading and assisting the workers in the unorganized sector to avail of the benefits under the different social welfare legislations, administrative programmes and schemes put in place by the State Government:—

Workers in the unorganized sector may be temperamentally not inclined to undergo the hassles for availing of the benefits of the schemes, programmes etc. Most of them being poor, illiterate and belonging to the lower strata of the society may not have the mental capacity to demand for their entitlements. Migrant workers being eager to go back to their villages after the work are unlikely to have support from the local people where they work. Any such situation demanding individual care will have to be given due attention and, if necessary, legal aid can be given.

(4) Reaching out to the unorganized labourers and facilitating their bargaining capacity with the employers and the institutional mechanisms for their welfare:—

Unorganised workers seldom have bargaining capacity for securing their rightful entitlements. This leads to exploitation by the employers. Temporary nature of their work also disablesthem from using the collective bargaining techniques. Support by the legal services institutions to the unorganized workers will empower them for demanding for their legal rights and entitlements.

Providing legal assistance in appropriate cases:

If any particular case requires legal action, the legal services institutions shall provide necessary legal assistance. For cases of Court based legal services the eligibility criteria prescribed under section 12 of the Jammu and Kashmir Legal Services Authorities Act, 1997 shall be kept in mind. The provisions of the Contract Labour (Regulation and Abolition) Act, 1970; The Bonded Labour System (Abolition) Act, 1976; The Inter-State Migrant Workmen Act, 1979; The Child Labour (Prohibition and Regulation) Act, 1986 and other major labour legislations also may be made use of in appropriate cases.
