Farmer Brothers! We have liberal rules: Adopt agroforestry for prosperity & posterity

Agroforestry is an answer to bridge the gap between demand and supply of fuelwood, fodder and timber and reduce pressure on forests. Thereby, it also helps to reduce pressure on forests by meeting these demand from areas outside forests. Agroforestry also helps in mitigating global warming and climate change by sequestering the carbon very fast as fast growing species are preferred under agroforestry systems.

Except Shiwalik and Aravalli regions there are no restrictions on planting, felling, transportation and sale of trees planted on farm lands. In Shiwalik and Aravalli regions too, we have kept Eucalyptus, poplar, bakain etc. out of purview of Punjab Land Preservation Act. So, farmers can earn more by combining agriculture and forestry. Grow more trees for ecological and economic prosperity.
