MESSAGE

We are all aware how the internet has revolutionized the field of communication. The growing use of internet has resulted into widespread activism on social media. Now-a-days talk of Facebook, Twitter, YouTube, etc. are common among even the school children in India. A good percentage of urban Indian population are active on one or the other social media website. The Law Commission of India would also like to be part of this growing trend in order to make its presence more prevalent. This will help the Commission, which works predominantly on a consultative mechanism, to elicit public opinion on its various projects. With this objective in mind, I am happy to announce the launch of the Commission's Facebook page, "Law Commission of India", twitter feed "@lawcomindia" and YouTube channel, "Law Commission of India". I am sure, the citizens of India will utilize these fora and collaborate with the Commission.

Further, I am so happy to announce that the Commission has adopted a Logo for itself which is flashed above just beneath the National Emblem. The Commission is thankful to Ms. Smriti Parsheera for designing its logo.

Ajit
