Being called for the Computer Proficiency Test does not, by itself, confer any right to selection or appointment. Final selection shall be made strictly in order of merit, to the extent of the actual vacancies, after completion of all stages of the recruitment process.

The candidature of all candidates called for the Computer Proficiency Test is purely provisional and shall be subject to verification of their eligibility and documents, and to the final vacancy position. Mere appearance in, or qualifying, the Computer Proficiency Test shall not create any right or claim whatsoever to selection or appointment.
