..2..

Answer :

Records perused. The FIR unfolded that the petitioner in an inebriated state abused with filthy language and attacked the complainant indiscriminately. As submitted by the prosecution four criminal cases are pending against the petitioner under NDPS Act. Also history sheet is opened against him as rowdy element. The above facts prima facie shows that the petitioner would frequently committed offence in the locality and causing trouble to the public. Further number of cases pending against him under NDPS Act. Considering the above facts, the petitioner is not entitled for bail.

In result, this anticipatory bail petition is dismissed.

Pronounced by me in open Court on this the 28th day of May 2024.
