

Energy Audit at A Glance (EAG) Programme for Industrial Sector

Scheme for Walk-through Energy Audit of Industrial Enterprises in Haryana

Background

Haryana is one of the most progressive states of the country. It has per capital energy consumption at 784 units annually. Haryana has total installed capacity for generation of power at 5700 MW. As per the assessment study carried out by the National Productivity Council, the State has a deficit of power at 12.6 % and there is a potential of saving of 3.273 billion units of electricity annually in agriculture, commercial, Municipal, Industry & domestic sectors which is about 17% of the total annual energy sold by the utilities.

The Govt. of India has enacted the Energy Conservation Act, 2001 with the objective to provide a regulatory framework for formulation and implementation of energy conservation strategies in the country for efficient use of energy. The Department of Renewable Energy, Haryana is the State Designated Agency to coordinate, regulate and enforce the provisions of the Energy Conservation Act, 2001 in the State of Haryana.

Haryana has a potential of saving of about 500 MW electrical energy by energy conservation and energy efficiency practices.

About HAREDA

The Haryana Renewable Energy Development Agency (HAREDA) is an autonomous body under the administrative control of the Department of Renewable Energy for effective implementation of various renewable energy and conservation programme. Director, Renewable Energy Department is the ex-officio Director of HAREDA.

Need for Energy Conservation

Power shortage hampers the economic growth of any state. Energy Conservation is the cheapest, easiest and cleanest way for bridging the gap between demand and supply. It is estimated that energy conservation projects requires only 1/5th investment against for installation of new power project.

Potential for Energy Conservation:

Some Studies indicated the following are the potential for energy conservation in various sectors of the state.
