

BALA - Building as a learning aid

BALA is an innovative concept towards improvement in education by using the school building as a learning aid. School building will be decorated with a lot of paintings which helps children in their academics. So whenever a child is moving in the school compound wherever he looks he can find something to learn. Like multiplication tables will be there on the steps, so whenever a child is going through the steps he can learn a table. In this way children finds something interesting to learn wherever he looks.
