DC'S MESSAGE

प्राचार्य संदेश

अत्यंत हर्ष एवं गौरव का विषय है कि हमारा विद्यालय पीएम श्री केंद्रीय विद्यालय बोलाराम "विद्यालय पत्रिका- नव पल्लव" का प्रकाशन कर रहा है। विद्यालय पत्रिका ईश्वर प्रदत्त शक्ति एवं विद्यार्थियों द्वारा अर्जित ज्ञान को अपनी रचित एवं संकलित रचनाओं के माध्यम से परिमार्जित एवं परिष्कृत करने का कार्य करती है। साथ ही विद्यार्थियों द्वारा अपने विचारों एवं कल्पनाओं को अभिव्यक्त करने का एक सरल, सहज एवं सशक्त माध्यम होती है। विद्यालय पत्रिका में प्रकाशित प्रत्येक रचना विद्यार्थियों के ज्ञान, अवबोध, रचनात्मकता संप्रेषण कौशल आदि में वृद्धि का महत्वपूर्ण सोपान है।

विद्यालय पत्रिका के माध्यम से ही हम इस नवीन पीढ़ी के विचारों एवं इनके द्वारा अनुसरित विचारधारा से अवगत हो सकते हैं तथा वर्ष भर में विद्यालय में आयोजित शैक्षिक व शैक्षिणेत्तर गतिविधियों, विभिन्न क्रियाकलापों का परिचय देते हुए विद्यालय की उपलब्धियों व प्रतिभाओं को भी जानने का सुअवसर मिलता है।

विद्यालय-पत्रिका का प्रकाशन विद्यालय परिवार के सामूहिक उद्यम का परिणाम है। इस सराहनीय प्रयास के लिए मैं सभी विद्यार्थियों, शिक्षकों एवं संपादक मंडल को अनेक बधाई व शुभकामनाएँ ज्ञापित करती हूँ।

EDITOR'S NOTE

Dear Readers,

With great pride and joy, we unveil the 2024-25 edition of the PM SHRI Kendriya Vidyalaya Bolarum School Magazine—a canvas of creativity, curiosity, —a reflection of our vibrant school community, our aspirations, and our commitment to excellence.

This magazine is not just a collection of articles, poems, and photographs. It is a celebration of the creative spirit, the inquisitive mind, and the collaborative heart that beats within every student and teacher at KV Bolarum. It captures the pulse of our school's journey—our achievements, our dreams, and our collective efforts to nurture responsible citizens of tomorrow.

. Success is not the key to happiness. Happiness is the key to success.*
If you love what you are doing, you will be successful.”

— Albert Schweitzer

As part of the prestigious PM SHRI (PM Schools for Rising India) initiative, our school stands as a beacon of innovation, inclusivity, and integrity. The year 2024-35 marks yet another milestone in our pursuit of academic distinction and holistic education. Whether it's in the classroom, on the sports field, on the stage, or in community outreach, our students continue to shine with talent, discipline, and compassion. In these pages, you will find young voices sharing thoughts on sustainability, technology, culture, leadership, and empathy. Each contribution is a testament to the nurturing environment our school provides—a safe haven where every child is encouraged to explore, question, learn and grow.

I extend our heartfelt thanks to the Principal, the editorial team, our dedicated teachers, and most importantly, the students whose work gives life to these pages. Let this magazine not only be a record of the year bygone but also a source of inspiration for the future.

Happy reading!

कारगिल विजय दिवस

कारगिल विजय दिवस हर साल 26 जुलाई को हम कारगिल विजय दिवस मनाते हैं। यह दिन भारतीय सेना की बहादुरी और हमारे देश की जीत की याद में मनाया जाता है। 1999 में भारत और पाकिस्तान के बीच कारगिल में युद्ध हुआ था। पाकिस्तान ने चुपचाप अपने सैनिकों को भारत की पहाड़ियों पर भेज दिया था, लेकिन हमारी सेना ने उन्हें हरा दिया। इस युद्ध में हमारे बहुत से वीर सैनिकों ने अपने प्राणों की आहुति दी। कैप्टन विक्रम बत्रा, लेफ्टिनेंट मनोज पांडेय जैसे जवानों ने अपनी जान देकर देश की रक्षा की। उनकी बहादुरी हमें बहुत प्रेरणा देती है। हमारे सैनिक बहुत मुश्किल हालातों में भी पीछे नहीं हटे और दुश्मन को हरा दिया। इसलिए इस दिन को हम गर्व और सम्मान के साथ मनाते हैं। कारगिल विजय दिवस हमें देशभक्ति और वीरता का महत्व सिखाता है। हमें अपने सैनिकों पर गर्व है और हम उनके बलिदान को कभी नहीं भूल सकते।

IF I WERE A BUTTERFLY

If I were a butterfly
On every flower I will flutter by
I won't let anybody cry
With the birds I will fly in the sky.
On every flower, I will lie
On pretty fairies, I will spy
And to the beautiful world I will say, "hi, hi, hi"
When they try to catch me I say, "bye, bye, bye."
None can catch me up and tie
However hard they can try
They have to relent with a sigh
If they catch me I die
but I'd love to be a fluttering butterfly
Making world colorful not asking where and why

The Quiet Strength of Kindness

In a world that moves fast and often feels disconnected, kindness remains one of the most powerful things we can offer — and it doesn't cost a thing. Kindness isn't just about what we do. It lives in the small stuff: holding the door open, checking in on a friend, or even just offering a genuine smile. These small moments remind people they matter — and that's a powerful gift. But let's be real: being kind isn't always easy. It takes patience. It takes empathy. It often means choosing grace over being right, or compassion over convenience. And that's why it's so meaningful. The best part? Kindness spreads. One act can create a ripple effect that reaches people you'll never meet. And in a time when division and negativity can feel overwhelming, kindness becomes a quiet form of resistance — a way to say, "I still believe in people." So today, be kind — not because you have to, but because you can. Someone out there might need it more than you know. " Spread kindness"

MENTAL HEALTH MATTERS

It's okay to not be okay. Just don't stay that way. Student life can be both exciting and stressful. With the pressure of exams, assignments, friendships, and the influence of social media, it's easy to feel overwhelmed. That's why mental health—how we think, feel, and deal with challenges—is so important. When we don't take care of it, stress and anxiety can affect our studies, our mood, and how we interact with others. Many students struggle with exam pressure, low self-esteem, peer pressure, and stress. But the good news is, there are simple things that can help. Talking to someone you trust, taking regular breaks, staying active, eating well, and limiting screen time can all make a big difference. Most importantly, be kind to yourself and remember that it's okay to ask for help. Let's work together to support each other and make mental health a priority in our school.

War vs. Peace

War and peace — two sides of the same coin War doesn't just break countries , it breaks people. Behind every explosion is a child crying, a mother waiting, a future burning. Peace is quiet, but powerful.

It's in a classroom full of dreams, in a hug after a long day, in voices choosing words over weapons. War makes noise. Peace makes change.

Reality check towards discrimination

Reality check towards discrimination India as country which is known for its rich diversity and deep-rooted values, still struggles with an uncomfortable reality discrimination. Despite constitutional rights and progressive laws, many citizens continue to face unfair treatment based on gender, caste, and religion. * From the womb to the workplace, women often fight for what should be basic equality, respect, and safety * caste-based discrimination remains deeply rooted in many regions.*

India's soul lies in its spiritual diversity, but this unity is often tested by extreme prejudice. Discrimination, whether it is extreme, obvious, or subtle, it is one of the main weaknesses of our country and the foundation of our nation which is getting affected. Every citizen deserves dignity and equal rights, not judgment based on gender, caste, or religion. India's strength lies in its diversity. Let us protect it — not divide it.

The Smell of Rain

Grey clouds gather, soft and slow, The world turns quiet, winds let go. Raindrops fall in gentle grace, Touching earth's forgotten face. The soil breathes deep, the dust takes flight, Old memories rise in scented light. Each drop—a whisper from the sky, Of moments passed, not said goodbye. No thunder roars, no wild parade, Just nature's hymn in soft cascade. This rain is more than water's touch—It smells like love, and feels as such.

TO THE BRAVE HEARTS.....

How can we forget the martyrs - our soldiers Who take extra efforts to secure our borders. They are the men who work wonders

Display courage in face of dangers
When a war is fought there are no survivors Many die and Many live a life of deathly terrors.

Silence of death haunts the seemingly obvious composure.

Ask a mother how she feels when her son is at war Each moment expecting some bad news that's in store Praying to Gods for keeping her son safe.

Ask a child whose heart is never at peace
Whose father couldn't spend days of care and affection. As he is away securing the nation

A child whose father possess a stone heart with no time, energy to think about his emotion where he wants to go, what is his destination

Earth where there will be not a single strife Where everyone enjoys a beautiful song called life When harmony we bring in continents seven
And discard all the harmful weapon
Together we can make this planet - our Earth, A beautiful place better than heaven.

MY VISION FOR INDIA - VIKSIT BHARAT 2047

When I heard of the campaign -VIKSIT BHARAT 2047, I went out to find what it means to Indians "What does Developed India actually mean?", I asked a farmer. Got a reply, "Where the soil has rich fertility and we have provision of better equipments for farming low taxes and a life free from debts". I agreed and moved to next lane where I met a doctor in hospital "What does Developed India mean to you ?", I asked him . "Where medicines give life, everyone gets health facilities, a place devoid of squalor and diseases." I entered a school and talked to a teacher. I asked her, "What, according to you is Developed India ? She replied, "Where people are educated and aware, none can fool them as they know their rights and their duties and follow them. "In the same school I saw a student sitting under a tree, "What does Developed India actually mean?", he was also asked Reply was, "A place where knowledge and skill are respected. Everyone has choice of career options and no talent going to the bin." For me -It's India where people follow the right path and work for better future of the country, This is what I believe my VIKSIT BHARAT to be.

A PATH OF LIGHT

A path of light, gleaming so bright
With dreams in our eyes, always guided right
We chase the stars, chase the skies
With strong and hopeful eyes

Each day we play, each day we grow
Like rivers, where creativity flows
Though challenges, we stand still and tall
Together rising through it all

With every word and every sentence
We write we write our story, day by day
Our hearts are full, our minds are open
As Teachers become our greatest guides

So here's to dreams, to voices bright
To stand still, in endless light
For our journey, we await to see
The wonder of curiosity

Our English Teacher, our Friend

In class each and every day,
Our teacher shows the way.
With books and chalk in hand,
She help us understand.

Sometimes strict, sometimes nice,
She gives us good advice.
Even when we do things wrong,
she helps us move along.

We learn more that what's in the book,
With just an angry look.
She teaches us lessons big and small,

WHISPERS OF THE WOODS

In the woods where shadows play,
Sunlight shines through leaves all day.
A soft breeze blows, gentle and light,
Whispering secrets all the night.

The brook flows slowly, a quiet friend,
Telling stories that never end.
Each little splash holds a thought,
Of happy days and moments sought.

Flowers bloom, bright and bold,
Colors dancing, a sight to behold.
Butterflies flutter, clumsy and free,
In this peaceful place, just them and me.

Mountains stand tall against the sky,
Silent watchers as the years go by.
Their stillness speaks of times long past,
A strength so quiet, a beauty that lasts.

As the sun goes down and shadows grow,
The forest whispers, "It's time to go."
Nature's hug wraps around me tight,
In her warm arms, everything feels right.

DEMON SLAYER

Demon Slayer is an anime that is not just inspiring but also deeply emotional. When I first heard its name, I assumed it was just another action series. However, when I started watching it, it quickly became one of the best anime I had ever seen.

One of the most profound messages of Demon Slayer is that villains are not born evil; they are shaped by their circumstances. Life's situations push and force them into becoming "villains."

The story follows Tanjiro Kamado, the kind-hearted protagonist who carries a mysterious wooden box everywhere he goes. People often assume the box contains his personal belongings, so they never question him. However, one day, a friend he meets at the station asks him, "What's in the box?" Tanjiro calmly replies, "She is my sister."

His sister, Nezuko, was turned into a demon after being attacked and bitten on the neck by a powerful, upper-level demon. Despite being a demon, Nezuko never hurts humans—she remains gentle and kind, unlike other demons. This inspires Tanjiro to dedicate his life to protecting her and finding a way to turn her back into a human.

Tanjiro decides to become a Hashira, an elite demon slayer tasked with defeating powerful demons and freeing them from their cursed existence. His journey is not easy—he trains tirelessly and meets other Hashira who, like him, are struggling to protect their loved ones.

And on sandy beaches
With gardens of peaches.

And sometimes turn into killers.
When the sun sets, there appears the moon
But then it feels like it would go away soon.

When we make a mistake, it's important to accept it, learn from it, and move forward. Time is precious, and it doesn't come back. Therefore, we must act with purpose and focus, especially during critical phases of life.

Teenage years, though full of challenges, can also be a turning point. While distractions are inevitable, overcoming them is what truly defines us. When tempted to take a wrong step, pause and reflect on the consequences—not just for yourself, but also for your family, who love and believe in you.

“Making mistakes is part of learning. But repeating a mistake knowingly is a choice—and a wrong one.”

Difficult days will come and go, but with self-awareness, determination, and the right mindset, we can always overcome them.

WE CAN OVERCOME DIFFICULT DAYS

Difficult days are an inevitable part of life, and overcoming them defines our strength and growth. One such challenging phase in my life occurred during my Class 10 board exams. Like many teenagers, I was caught between distractions and the allure of choosing an easier path. Unfortunately, I made poor decisions, wasting time on activities that added no value to my goals. At the time, I didn't realize the consequences of my actions, but looking back now, I feel regretful. What gives me peace, however, is that I recognized my mistakes and took steps to correct them.

One crucial lesson I learned is that no one will think about your struggles as deeply as you do—except your parents and siblings. Everyone is busy navigating their own lives and problems, so worrying about "what others think" is a waste of time and energy. Instead, focus on what truly matters: your goals, growth, and responsibilities.

Mistakes are part of being human. They are not something to be ashamed of unless we repeat them knowingly.

INDIA OF MY DREAMS

India, a country with a rich and glorious history etched in the hearts of every Indian, fills me with pride. As I envision the India of my dreams, I see a nation that is prosperous, inclusive, and progressive, a place where every citizen thrives.

At the heart of my vision lies equality—a nation where caste, race, gender, religion, or region does not divide people. I dream of an India where opportunities are abundant, and no one lives in poverty. A nation that fosters quality education, with advanced universities and a robust education system accessible to all.

In the India I dream of, peace and harmony prevail both within the country and beyond its borders. This India promotes kindness and moral values while preserving its ancient culture and traditions. Development here does not come at the cost of heritage but is instead propelled by it. I envision a nation that stands tall on the world stage—a leader in aerospace, biotechnology, health, education, and justice. An India whose democratic values inspire the world, where crime rates are low, and where authorities uphold justice with integrity, free from corruption.

In this India, gender roles are no longer rigid. Men actively contribute to household chores, and women pursue meaningful careers, contributing equally to the nation's growth. Rural areas flourish alongside urban centers, with advancements in farming, animal husbandry, dairy, textiles, and other industries that sustain our economy.

The India of my dreams is also safeguarded by its courageous soldiers—heroes who stand victorious against all adversities and protect our freedom. This is the India I envision—a land of equality, opportunity, peace, and progress, where every citizen works together to build a brighter, stronger future.

THINK BEFORE YOU SPEAK

There was a time when I was busy with my own dreams and thoughts, never paying much attention to my words or the way I thought about people. Then, two incidents occurred that taught me a valuable lesson: think before you speak or even think unkind thoughts.

The first incident happened when my grandmother fell sick and was admitted to the hospital. The doctors reassured us, saying, "She will be fine; we'll do our best." But before this, I never had a good relationship with her. She often scolded us—telling us not to play too much, not to use our phones, and always advising us to focus on other things. Because of this, I held some resentment in my heart. I would sometimes think, "Why are people like her even around? Why can't they just let us live how we want?"

Then, out of nowhere, a call came from the hospital saying she was no more. It hit me like a twist of fate. Just moments before, I had been thinking these unkind thoughts, and suddenly, it was as if my words had been heard and acted upon. The guilt I felt was overwhelming. The second incident was similar but slightly different. My mother's sister's mother-in-law fell ill and was also admitted to the hospital. When I heard this, I found myself questioning, "Why do they need to admit her? Why not just keep her at home?" My thoughts turned negative again, because I had seen how so many people who went to the hospital never returned alive. I couldn't help but think, "What if she doesn't survive?"

And just an hour later, we got the call—she had passed away.

These incidents left me shaken. I couldn't help but feel responsible, even though I knew deep down that my thoughts alone weren't to blame. From that day, I learned an important lesson: our thoughts and words carry weight.

It's easy to think or say something unkind when we are frustrated or upset, but we often don't realize how powerful our words can be—not just for others, but for ourselves. I have carried the guilt of these thoughts for a long time, and sharing this today feels like a relief.

So, think before you speak. Think good for others, speak positively, and stay kind always. Because the energy you put out into the world matters—more than you know.

Thank you.

HYDERABAD – THE CITY OF NAWABS

Hyderabad, famously known as "The City of Nawabs," holds a special place in my heart. This vibrant city is renowned for its rich history, iconic landmarks, delicious cuisines, diverse cultures, unique traditions, and distinct clothing styles. It's a place that offers a perfect blend of the old and the new, where heritage and modernization coexist beautifully.

Hyderabad is home to some of the most famous tourist attractions in India, such as the iconic Charminar, the serene Hussain Sagar Lake, the historic Golconda Fort, and many others. Being a native of this city, I have countless cherished memories associated with Hyderabad. From celebrating colorful festivals to attending engaging events, seminars, and cultural programs, my experience of growing up here has been truly wonderful.

Over the years, Hyderabad has developed significantly in many areas. It has become a hub for IT companies, fostering innovation and creating countless opportunities for professionals.

A decorative border with a black vine, leaves, and flowers surrounds the text.

The education system here has also evolved, with many prestigious institutions like Osmania University and Hyderabad Central University (HCU) contributing to the city's reputation as a center of knowledge.

However, despite its progress, the city faces challenges such as unemployment and poverty. Yet, I've seen countless inspiring initiatives where people have opened free NGOs and help centers to support those in need. This humanitarian spirit is one of the many reasons I'm proud of my city.

Tourists from around the world are drawn to Hyderabad not only for its historic sites but also for its vibrant culture and cuisine. The Hyderabadi Biryani, in particular, is a dish that has become synonymous with the city itself—capturing the essence of its rich culinary heritage. Visitors also fall in love with the unique Hyderabadi slang and the warmth of its people.

For me, Hyderabad is more than just a city; it's a treasure trove of memories and learning. My favorite spots include the Charminar and the Salar Jung Museum, where history comes alive through timeless architecture and artifacts. The greenery, peaceful environment, and sense of community here make Hyderabad a truly unique and relaxing place to live.

The city also fosters healthy competition in various fields like education, sports, and even politics, with numerous political parties shaping its dynamic nature. The people of Hyderabad are joyful, caring, and welcoming, showing kindness not just to fellow humans but also to animals.

In conclusion, Hyderabad is a city like no other—a perfect blend of culture, history, and progress. It's a place that makes you feel alive, with its lively atmosphere, rich traditions, and modern advancements. To me, Hyderabad is not just my hometown; it's a beautiful and wonderful city that I'm proud to call home.

THE DREAM THAT MADE ME FEEL LIKE A QUEEN

One day, I was in a terrible mood, and to calm myself down, I decided to take a nap. The moment I fell asleep, I slipped into a dream so vivid that it still feels unforgettable. It wasn't just any dream—it was something magical, something that made me feel like the luckiest girl in the entire universe.

In my dream, I was the Queen of the Universe. I know it might sound funny, but for me, it was an emotional and prestigious moment. I was draped in gold ornaments and richer than anyone you could imagine—hundreds of Ambanis and fifty Bill Gates combined wouldn't even come close! I ruled the entire world, and I wasn't just a queen with wealth; I had superpowers too. A mix of Thor's strength, Hulk's might, and Captain America's bravery, I was unstoppable.

But what made the dream even more special was that I could talk to God. Yes, God Himself! He told me that I was His chosen one, sent to make the world a better place. So, I got to work. In my dream, I removed discrimination, poverty, and unemployment entirely. I made a rule that everyone should have equal rights and opportunities, and to my surprise, everyone followed it.

There were no politics, no corruption, and no unnecessary fights. Animals were given as much freedom as humans, and I created two separate worlds—one for humans and one for animals—both equipped with everything they needed to live happy and fulfilling lives.

If there was ever a problem, they would call me to solve it, and guess what? I could even talk to animals in their own language!

I know this might sound like the funniest and most ridiculous dream, but for me, it wasn't just a dream. It felt real, and it wiped away all the bad thoughts and feelings I had inside me. I woke up feeling refreshed and inspired, as if God Himself had given me that dream to remind me of my potential.

I know I may never be the Queen of the Universe in reality, but that dream taught me something important. I can still live like a queen—not with money or superpowers, but with hard work, kindness, and the determination to make a difference in the world.

Thank you!

IMPORTANCE OF READING

Reading is important for everyone, but of course, it also depends on whether a person is actually interested in it. In my opinion, everyone should try to build the habit of reading because it has so many benefits. It improves our vocabulary, grammar, pronunciation, and even the way we speak. It helps us concentrate better, and for some people, reading can even feel like therapy.

That being said, reading only feels therapeutic when you enjoy it—if you're not into books, it might not work the same way. But once you find the right book or genre, it can become one of the most enjoyable activities. There are so many genres to explore, like fiction, fantasy, thriller, horror, romance, adventure, and more.

Personally, I love being a bookworm. Reading has taught me patience and boosted my creativity. It broadens my mind and introduces me to new ideas and perspectives. Books can help us learn and grow, but they're not just about knowledge—they're fun too! If you have a vivid imagination, you can even picture yourself as the main character and live the story in your head.

My personal favorite book is The Magician's Apprentice. It's packed with action, magic, and just a hint of romance, which makes it the perfect read for me. I highly recommend it to anyone looking for an exciting and magical adventure.

So, if you haven't started reading yet, give it a try. You never know, you might just find your new favorite thing!

A Dream Rewritten

When I was 12 years old, I dreamed of becoming a software engineer. It felt so clear and exciting—working with computers, solving problems, and creating things. But as I entered 10th grade, that clarity began to blur. One day, our maths teacher explained that we had to choose between two streams: Basic and Standard maths. I didn't fully understand what this meant, so I turned to my relatives and seniors for advice. Most of them said Basic maths was easier, while Standard maths was difficult and risky. I was nervous and unsure of myself, so I chose the Basic stream, thinking it was the safer option.

At the time, it felt like a small decision, but after my board exams, the weight of that choice became clear. When the results came in, I had scored lower in maths than I hoped. My dream of studying MPC (Maths, Physics, and Chemistry) and pursuing software engineering suddenly felt out of reach. I told my parents about my dream, hoping to find a way forward. I suggested joining a private college where I could take MPC, but the fees were too high for my family to afford. That's when my parents suggested I take CEC (Commerce, Economics, and Civics) in school instead.

I didn't want to study CEC. I felt lost, like my dream was slipping away from me, and I didn't know what to do. I couldn't bring myself to argue with my parents—they were doing their best and only wanted what was practical and manageable. So, with a heavy heart, I agreed. At first, it felt like giving up, and I was filled with doubt. Was I settling for less? Would I ever feel passionate about something again?

But as time went on, I began to see things differently. Studying CEC opened new doors and showed me a side of myself I hadn't explored before. Slowly, I started finding joy in this path, and even though it wasn't what I had initially dreamed of, I realized it wasn't the end of my journey. Dreams can change, and that's okay.

Looking back, I've learned that life is full of twists and turns. Sometimes, what feels like the end of one dream can be the beginning of something unexpected and meaningful. Even though I didn't become a software engineer, I've grown to embrace my new path with hope and determination. And who knows? Maybe this is exactly where I'm meant to be.

Thank you!

MY DREAM JOB

My name is Deepak Chotala, and my dream job is to become a chef at Burj-Al-Arab or Oberoi Hotel. Ever since I was a child, I've been inspired by Chef Sanjeev Kapoor. I watched his MasterChef show and followed his recipes on YouTube, and that's when I knew that cooking wasn't just something I enjoyed, it was something I wanted to pursue seriously. I love food — not just eating it, but making it. The idea of crafting a perfect dish from scratch excites me.

However, my path hasn't been easy. My mother doesn't allow me to cook in the kitchen, which often left me frustrated. But I didn't let that stop me. I found other ways to explore my passion, like participating in a boiled egg decoration competition, where I came second. That small victory made me realize how much I truly love the art of cooking.

The dream of wearing a white chef's uniform and working in a world-renowned hotel is something I hold onto. I've faced challenges along the way, but my determination is what keeps me going. I may not be where I want to be just yet, but every experience, no matter how small, has pushed me closer to my goal. One day, I will be the chef I've always dreamed of becoming, and I'll look back at this journey with pride.

CALMING WAVES

I sat near a sea shore endlessly thinking to the core

And suddenly saw the mighty waves, coming slowly like the swaying caves

For a moment I felt so thrilled,
The sight of nature made me chilled

The swaying energy, the movement, synchronizing
Oh! Waves! What a beauty!
Was that agonizing?
No! It was astonishing

Oh! How so intimidating but in real so calming

I laughed at my pointless thoughts, and walked away content with my happy bouts
