A Vibrant School Publication Team: Uniting Creativity and Technology

The school boasts a dynamic publication team that brings together the leadership and creative energy of the house publication captains with the technical expertise of CS students. This collaborative spirit fosters a thriving environment for producing high-quality publications.

Diverse Publications Showcase School and Regional Talent

The team produces a variety of publications that cater to a wide audience:

School E-Magazine: This digital magazine serves as a platform for students to showcase their literary talents, share school events, and express their unique perspectives.

Ek Bharat Shreshth Bharat Magazine: This collaborative effort unites the Kendriya Vidyalayas of the Kolkata region. Students from various schools contribute content, fostering a sense of regional identity and cultural exchange.

KVS Shala Dhyani E-Magazine: This magazine likely focuses specifically on the news and happenings within the student's own Kendriya Vidyalaya school.

KVS News (April-June Issue): This publication, presumably released quarterly, keeps the school community informed about important news and events for the months of April, May, and June.

Collaboration is Key

The success of the publications hinges on the effective collaboration between the house captains, who bring their creative vision and leadership skills, and the CS students, who provide technical support and expertise in digital publishing. This unique blend of talent ensures that the publications are not only informative and engaging but also visually appealing and technically sound.
