VSK set to transform higher education in Uttarakhand: Rawat

PIONEER NEWS SERVICE ■ Dehradun

The Vidya Samiksha Kendra (VSK) would prove to be a milestone in making the state's higher education system data-driven, technology-driven, transparent, and results-driven, stated the Higher Education minister Dhan Singh Rawat on Thursday while inaugurating the Higher Education department's regional office and VSK located at the School Education Directorate, Nanurkheda. "This centre will provide online data on the infrastructure, student numbers and basic amenities available at all government colleges and will also facilitate the transfer and promotion of teachers and non-teaching staff. The regional office will also play a crucial role in accelerating departmental activities," he added.

He stated that under the NEP 2020, the VSK is being successfully operated within the State under the School Education Department. In this context, the regional office and VSKs were constructed under the Higher Education department at a cost of approximately Rs five crore. "This will be the country's first VSK in the field of higher education. This centre will now provide real-time monitoring of all government college infrastructure, student attendance, exam results, and teacher performance. The transfer and promotion process for teachers and non-teaching staff, as well as the effective implementation of departmental schemes, will also be conducted through these VSKs," he declared.

He stated that through VSK, higher education would be further enhanced by reviewing the progress of schemes, resource utilisation and performance of institutions. "Furthermore, the information obtained will be analysed and used in policy formulation," he said.

Eco-Friendly Ganesh Visarjan gains ground in Doon

PIONEER NEWS SERVICE ■ Dehradun

Eco-friendly Ganesh Visarjan has started gaining popularity in Dehradun. Driven by social media and rising awareness, residents in the city this year immersed idols in small buckets at home to avoid polluting rivers and harming aquatic life, a shift from the earlier practice of river immersion with colours.

It is important to mention that Ganesh Mahotsav began across the country on September 14 and will conclude on September 25.

Speaking about the change in Ganesh Visarjan, a resident who is a teacher Charu Sharma said that every year she brings the Ganesh idol home on Ganesh Chaturthi and worships it for five to seven days. Earlier, she used to visit Maldevta for Visarjan. But after reading articles and watching reels on social media, she understood how immersion of idols harms water bodies and aquatic life. This year she immersed an idol at home in a small bucket. After a few days, the idol will dissolve and she will use the water for plants, she added.

Another resident, Manu Arora said, "Worship and a safe environment both play an important role. Keeping this in mind, we opted for a different Ganesh Visarjan style this year. Earlier, we used to play with colours and immerse the idol in rivers, which affects not only water bodies but us too. This year, the family did eco Visarjan at home by making a small pond with a tub and bidding goodbye with flowers instead of colours."

HPV vaccination drive gains pace, over 65 K girls covered

PIONEER NEWS SERVICE ■ DEHRADUN

The HPV vaccination programme in Uttarakhand has gained momentum, with more than 65,000 adolescent girls vaccinated against human papillomavirus (HPV) with the State target set at 95,000, covering thus about 69 per cent of the target. As per the HPV vaccination programme's district ranking dashboard, Chamoli has achieved 100 per cent of its target, followed by Pithoragarh with about 96 per cent and Udham Singh Nagar with nearly 86 per cent coverage. The Health department said that vaccination activities in other districts have also picked up pace. The programme covers girls who have completed 14 years of age but have not yet turned 15. HPV infection is one of the major causes of cervical cancer and vaccination at the recommended age helps protect against HPV infection and related diseases.

The health minister Subodh Uniyal said that the State Government is committed to ensuring that every eligible adolescent girl received the HPV vaccine on time.

The health secretary Vinay Shankar Pandey said that regular monitoring and follow up were being strengthened to reach all eligible girls, adding that the department was also working towards strengthening a system under which girls receive the HPV vaccine after completing 14 years of age. The mission director, National Health Mission, Dr Sandeep Tiwari said that the Health department, in coordination with the Education department, was increasing awareness and vaccination activities at the school level.

The director of NHM, Dr Amit Shukla said that the vaccination progress was being continuously monitored and efforts were focused on reaching the remaining eligible girls. The officials said that the system would help identify low-performing areas and stock-related issues for timely action. Awareness activities are being conducted in schools through morning assemblies and interaction with parents. The State is also observing every Sunday as Pink Day at health centres to spread awareness about HPV vaccination and cervical cancer prevention.

NEM supports nursing interns' stipend demand

PIONEER NEWS SERVICE ■ Dehradun

Nursing Ekta Manch (NEM) has extended support to State nursing interns who are demanding a stipend of Rs 13,000 per month. Manch clarified that if the demand is not fulfilled soon, they will organise agitation along with interns.

Pertinently, nursing interns from State nursing colleges in Dehradun, Almora, Haldwani and others have been raising concerns over a Rs 13,000 monthly stipend and had protested a few days back along with candle march. According to sources, it has also been reported that the Directorate of Medical Education has sent a proposal to the government to give a monthly stipend to nursing students.

NEM president Naval Pundir said that nursing interns have been raising concerns and protesting for a stipend for the past few days. Amid growing demand for a stipend during internship by junior nursing students of government nursing institutes, they expressed displeasure over a letter issued recently by the Directorate of Medical Education.

The letter directed the principals of State-run nursing institutions to inform students not to engage in protest activities. It stated that failure to do so could result in disciplinary action, including expulsion for more than three months of the academic year. He said that junior nursing students are demanding a stipend during internship. Instead of listening to demands and engaging in constructive dialogue, threatening disciplinary action amounts to suppressing students' voices.
