

E-Publication

The school magazine not only inspires the interests and psychos of the students of the school, but also helps the hidden writer inside them to come out. The school magazine represents the perception and reflection of students in different dimensions. The Students reflect their creativity through stories, poems, articles and essays. Moreover, different activities being conducted in Vidyalayas also get space in local newspapers which not only motivate the students to participate more effectively but also associate themselves with an important aspect of social environment.

Kendriya Vidyalayas under Lucknow Region have several type of publications. The contents of these publications are prepared by the students, the teachers, and other staff members of KVs.
