

Guidance and counseling

Guidance and counseling is a process that helps people develop their educational, psychological, and vocational potential. The goal is to help people achieve a level of personal happiness and social usefulness.

Guidance and counseling can help people with: Coping skills, Decision making, Behavior change, and Interpersonal relationships.

